Subject: Settlement

The proposed settlement has all the appearance of a slap on the wrist for a major offender by a business-friendly administration. How can the option to settle be offered to a company that flaunts the findings of fact and audaciously releases a product (Windows XP) that continues the anticompetitive practices which got it in trouble in the first place? I urge the Justice Dept. to pursue justice in this case and seek a penalty that will curtail Microsoft's illegal activities.
